UNION FOR YOUNG MEN

GLENDALE CITIZEN THINKS F. J. MATTHIESSEN'S PLAN IS IMPRACTICABLE

Editor Glendale Evening News:

Having a number of boys myself I naturally read with a good deal of interest the article in your paper of August 1st, written by F. J. Matthiessen entitled "Union for Young Men."

While I agree with Mr. Matthiessen in his statement of the need of some specific work of a religious and physical nature for the young men and boys of Glendale, I regret to be obliged to differ with him in the method of attaining his object. I happen to be fairly familiar with the outcome of such an effort as he proposes, not only in California but in several other States. The result has been universal failure.

It is not the purpose of this article to point out the causes of such failure but simply to suggest that before such an undertaking be started in Glendale a study be made throughout communities like Glendale to find out how many gymnasiums are run successfully on the basis he proposes, and after he located these communities that a study be made of the elements that enter into the success of the enterprise. Unfortunately there are too many business men who are capable of exercising good judgment in their business affairs who exhibit poor judgment when it comes to backing up an enterprise of this character.

GLENDALE CITIZEN.

A TRUE STORY

A stranger walked into a Glendale store one hot day last summer and thus addressed the manager: "Say this is a queer welcome you Glendale folks give us visitors; not a single seat to sit on, not a tree to afford us shade, not a spot where we can rest and be shielded from the glare of the sun, not a single damned spot where we can ease our aching feet. Well, all I can say is, the sooner we get out of here the better."

Now just suppose that the entire length of Brand boulevard had been shady with real shade trees (not prickly with palms), the parkings all in restful green, and that at intervals between shade trees had stood comfortable, inviting seats (real park seats, not wobbly, wooden advertisements), do you think that that stranger would have angrily and grudgingly shaken the dust of Glendale off his feet?—NANNO WOODS.

CANADIAN SOCIETY

The Canadian Society of Southern California will hold its annual picnic at Sycamore Grove, Los Angeles, Saturday afternoon, August 19th.

A full program of athletic events and races is being arranged for, and suitable and attractive prizes will be given. We will have a stirring address by Thomas E. Woolwine, District Attorney of Los Angeles County, and an address by Mr. Tyrone Power, the eminent actor.

An urgent invitation is extended to former residents of the Dominion and friends of Canada. We wish to make this a gala day, and a bright one in the memory of our Canadian people. Bring a basket lunch. Hot coffee and chocolate served on grounds free to all having the Maple Leaf badge. Every Canuck will be more than welcome, and we want to see you and your friends present.

A PRIZE BABY

Master John M. Ferry, aged eighteen months, baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter L. Ferry of Acacia avenue, would be a proud youngster if he realized the honor recently thrust upon him. Master John attended the Catholic picnic at Venice Saturday in company with his parents, who entered him in the baby show. As a result he is the possessor of a beautiful gold ring, awarded him as a prize for excellence in those points that go to make up a prize baby. John's parents are deservedly proud of the honor he received.

CHARMING AFFAIRS FOR PLEASURE OF VISITOR

In compliment to Miss Annabel McClelland, who is the house guest of Mrs. Geo. E. Krinbill, of Cedar avenue, a luncheon and box party was given on Saturday evening at the Liberty by Clarence E. Krinbill to a bevy of attractive young ladies.

Today Mr. Krinbill is giving a picnic for Miss McClelland, Miss Elizabeth Peters, of Patterson, N. J., and Miss Rena Iverson, of Douglas, Ariz., at "Oakleigh," the beautiful Sawme home in the foothills.—Long Beach Press.

HANDLING OF MILK

MILK INSPECTOR HOLLENBECK TELLS OF ESSENTIALS FOR CITY PLANTS

"During the past few months," said Milk Inspector Hollenbeck, "the standing of all the Glendale dairies has advanced. The scores range from 59 to 75. A score of 100 would be perfect; but according to the State laws certain features, such as pasteurization of milk, the test for tuberculosis and cement fittings throughout are necessary in order to obtain the 100 per cent mark."

"During some time past quite a number of the local dairies have introduced the test for tuberculosis, but they did not get credit for the introduction in the last scoring as it was made before the introduction of the test. A number of reacting cows were removed last month."

"Several dairies are talking about introducing pasteurizing plants, but the price seems prohibitive. Fifteen hundred dollars is rather a high price for any dairy to pay for such a plant. I feel certain that if a pasteurizer could be obtained for about $600 or $700 quite a number of dairies would install the apparatus."

"One of the chief requirements of a modern dairy is cleanliness. Sometimes this feature is temporarily overlooked. As a reminder of points neglected in this way a score card, such as is used by dairy inspectors, should be posted where it can easily be seen by the employees, who by studying it can learn wherein they are lacking, from the inspector's point of view."

"There are some details in milk-plant sanitation which are not given on any score card. If the floors, wall and ceiling are smooth and are made of sound and durable materials they can easily be kept free from dirt and dust. Concrete floors are very satisfactory for they can be flushed frequently with water. There is no danger of rotting them and if properly constructed there will be no cracks where dust or dirt can collect."

"A separate room for handling the milk is essential and all doors must be kept closed to exclude flies and impure air. It is best to provide pure air by means of a modern system of ventilation."

"The milk must be kept cool after it is received at the plant and not be allowed to stand long before bottling. If not used at once the cans should be put into a refrigerator or the milk stored in tanks made for this purpose. These tanks must be kept in a cool place or be surrounded with a jacket of ice or brine. Strainers of cheesecloth are more satisfactory and more easily cleaned than those of wire gauze; but the use of strainers of any kind should be avoided as much as possible."

"A filter of cheesecloth and cotton, if used, must be changed several times during the day. The cheesecloth must be washed, sterilized and kept where the air is pure. It can be used a few days before throwing it away, but the cotton, of course, should be used only once. As soon as the milk is put up all parts of the apparatus should be thoroughly cleaned by first rinsing in cool water, then washing with hot water, to which washing powder has been added, and finally sterilizing with boiling water or steam."

"The pumps and pipes can be rinsed by pumping water through immediately after using. They must then be taken down and thoroughly washed. This can easily be done if there are several couplings in the pipes. All joints and couplings must be kept tight and free from dirt, rust and corrosion. Battered and rusty cans or apparatus afford breeding grounds for bacteria and being hard to clean should not be used."

GOOD TEMPLAR LODGE

ITALIANS HASTEN TO CAPTURE TRIESTE

FALL OF GORIZIA OPENS UP ROAD TO GREAT SEAPORT OF TRIESTE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

ROME, Aug. 9.—The Italians have captured Gorizia, the enormously strong fortified city for which they have been struggling during the past year. The defenses fell with an ease that amazed the Italians themselves. The Italian artillery pounded the trenches of the Austrians to pieces and the Italian soldiers swarmed over the debris and thoroughly broke up the Austrian defense. The Hungarians and Croats put up a good fight, but the German Austrians fled or surrendered at once. The Italians have 10,000 prisoners and an incalculable number of big guns, machine guns and munitions. The way is now open for a rapid advance on the great seaport of Trieste, 22 miles southeast of Gorizia.

BRIDGE AND SHOWER

EASTERN VISITOR AND BRIDE-ELECT COMPLIMENTED BY MRS. BEAMON

Mrs. A. M. Beamon, of 245 S. Maryland avenue, entertained at auction bridge, Tuesday afternoon, in honor of her cousin, Miss Ann Henratty, of Erie, Pa., who is her guest, and Miss Harriett Wells, who is soon to be a bride. The decorations of white and gold were simple but beautiful and very artistically arranged. Dahlias, marigolds and coreopsis with loads of orange blossoms and ferns were used in achieving the desired result. The punch bowl was the object of a unique arrangement, representing a cool spring almost hidden in ribbon grass and ferns and surrounded with marigolds. The fire place was banked with ferns studded with orange blossoms, the base outlined with potted ferns. A wedding bell suspended from the ceiling was significant and was the same under which Mrs. Beamon stood on a memorable day nine years ago. A handsome Japanese parasol suspended above the fireplace suggested that a shower was impending.

Mrs. Beamon was assisted in receiving and entertaining by her mother, Mrs. C. H. DuBois, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. James L. Flint. Auction bridge occupied the attention of the guests for the afternoon. Mrs. Lester Bennett and Mrs. James L. Flint being fortunate in winning the prizes which they presented to the bride-elect. Prizes were also given the two guests of honor. The four prize winners were asked to form in line and march past the table where the prizes were arranged. Miss Wells was the last to take her prize and as she did so a ribbon attached released the shower which fell from the suspended parasol. Opening and admiring the many beautiful gifts occupied some time.

The table decorations and refreshments were also in gold and white, the nutbaskets and bon bons being pretty conceits. Tally cards for the afternoon were horse shoes and wish bones hand decorated with orange blossoms and the table markers harmonized with them.

The invited guests were Mrs. C. H. DuBois, Mrs. R. H. Wells, Mrs. Lester Bennett, Mrs. Edwin R. Collins, Mrs. Arthur Hayt, Mrs. Adam Underwood, Mrs. C. O. Pulliam, Mrs. Gus Pulliam, Mrs. Edwin Stauffacher, Mrs. C. E. Lauler, Mrs. George V. Meserole, Mrs. James P. Harvey, Mrs. Jos. L. Stagner, Mrs. Leon Casper Long, Mrs. J. L. ## MUSICAL EVENING

YOUNG MEN PLAN AND CARRY OUT PLEASANT SOCIAL AFFAIR

Some of the young men of the Lutheran church arranged a very pleasing entertainment, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Anderson, 407 S. Isabel street, Tuesday evening. The affair took the form of a musical. Mr. George Anderson, who was the organizing force in the affair, was ably assisted by Mrs. Anderson, who presided over the refreshment part of the program, being assisted by various other ladies.

Mr. Orly J. Bond, a pianist of large native talent and careful training, gave a fine exhibition of piano technique, in several pieces. Elizabeth Mottern, daughter of the Rev. R. W. Mottern, pastor of the First Lutheran church, whose remarkable musical talent is well known, delighted the audience with several songs and piano music, singing by request, "The Perfect Day."

Little Patricia St. Clair gave an artistic pose interpretation of a piece, entitled, "The Perfumed Fan," recited dramatically by her mother, Mrs. J. A. St. Clair.

Mr. George Anderson acted as accompanist throughout the better part of the evening and played several elaborate compositions that demanded deftness of fingering and sureness of touch. He also accompanied Mr. J. A. St. Clair in some violin operatic selections. Mr. Bryson delighted the gathering by various oldtime violin country dances. Little Mary Brooks played some piano pieces with great cleverness and taste. Mr. P. E. Laichinger, the well-known organist, sang with much taste several fine baritone solos and assisted in playing accompaniments. Ice cream and pie were served and the guests had a most enjoyable time. The grounds adjoining the house were illuminated with Chinese lanterns and refreshments were served on tables outside. There was a large attendance, the house and grounds being crowded.

NEW WOMAN'S PARTY

Deep interest is being taken in the approaching conference of the leaders of the new Woman's party, which is to convene at Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 10. The members of the National Executive committee of the party are aggressive and determined to bring all parties to time on the question of national suffrage. There have been scores of conferences between the women of the different states and it is pretty well understood that the leaders of the twelve suffrage states composing the party will meet Thursday to decide which way to throw the 4,000,000 votes they claim to control.

Among the leading speakers of the party are Maud Younger of California, Secretary of the National Council of the Congressional Union; Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, Delaware, Chairman of the Delaware Branch of the Congressional Union; Mrs. William Kent, California, of the National Executive Committee of the Congressional Union and wife of Representative Kent of California, chairman of the recently formed Wilson Non-partisan league, and Mrs. Sara Bard Field of Oregon.

The conferees have just one motive, they say—to force the passage of the Constitutional amendment permitting women to vote. If the Democrats do not show signs of passing it quickly, they say, the 4,000,000 votes are going to go Republican, or Prohibition, or Progressive, or Socialist or to whatever party will do most good to their cause.

It is not as yet entirely apparent that the women of the twelve suffrage states and their supporters in the non-suffrage states are able to deliver the 4,000,000 votes as they please. It is probable that they have not considered that their threat of being able to deliver the 4,000,000 votes as they please is just the kind of corruption with which they have charged the old parties.

Undeterred by the sneers of those who think that corruption is had enough even when masquerading in the midst of a Woman's party, the leaders say that their statistics ought to terrify even the most hidebound and pachydermatous politician. They say that they control sufficient votes in each of the twelve suffrage states to elect either Republicans or Democrats as they please. It seems likely that this club will be waved threateningly at the coming convention.

Some of the leading authorities in the party say that every state has enough independent women voters to turn the balance in favor of one party or the other. One leading woman said, "The Democratic platform is an insult to the intelligent voting women of America. If Mr. Hughes had not been wise enough already to have signified his assent to the principle of national woman's suffrage he would have small chance for the presidency."

"Another says: 'The Democratic party, like a dying man undergoing deathbed repentance, may retrieve the past by passing the Anthony amendment through the present Democratic congress. This would enable many of our members like Mrs. Harriett Stanton Hatch, Mrs. Sara Bard Field and others to campaign and vote for Mr. Wilson. We are not depending on the party-bound women to help us out because they are as partisan as the men. We are counting on the independent women voters. Those who know the sentiment of the women all over the voting states say that they may be depended to do what is right.'"

ALASKA COPPER RIVER REGION

Under the stimulus of railway development the Copper river region of Alaska is gradually being opened up. This is one of the very wonderful pieces of territory in the vast continental stretch of country that was purchased by Secretary Seward for the United States at a cost of $7,000,000. In a country of 598,000 square miles, even the vast Copper River region is not so very noticeable, were it not for its enormously rich deposits of copper.

When Henry Bratnaber made an extensive trip through that region back in 1903 he found evidences of the rich deposits of copper. In some places huge boulders of native copper lay on the surface and all along the Copper River native copper absolutely pure was found. It is to open up this region that the Copper River & Northwestern railway has been built and is being extended. It is the beginning of an Alaskan railway system that will branch into regions the wonders of which are not half known.

This railway running through Alaska's most richly mineralized belt, extends along the only practical route from the coast to the interior. The locating of a railroad and the building of it cannot be done haphazard. Scientific principles must be followed and natural laws, conditions and elements and forces must be considered. When the era of railroad building came and railroads crossed mountains the pioneer trails were widened and rebuilt into highways of steel and stone, following the rivers. They enter and cross the mountains by the natural route. Following the course of the Copper River, the railroad has had many extraordinary difficulties with which to contend, not the smallest being the shortness of the working season.

The southern portion of Alaska, from its eastern boundary line to as far west as Cook Inlet, a distance of 500 miles, is a mountainous district fronting on the North Pacific Ocean. Back of this wall of mountains lie the valleys of the Tanana and Yukon rivers, rich in gold and bright with agricultural promise. The temperature in the Tanana valley even in early spring goes as high as times as 100. There wheat crops will be grown and indeed have already been grown.

In that long bulwark of mountains there is but one mighty stream, the Copper river, that in ages long past beat and forced its way to the sea, and thus formed the only natural and scientific road between the coast and the interior. Along that natural water-level route the great Copper River & Northwestern railway is being driven, crossing the river at various points on bridges of the most modern construction.

The road is standard gauge and was built according to the most rigid and exacting standards. Heavy rails were used, the track bal-

FOREST RANGERS' WORK

The Forestry Service is a large and growing field of the United States government activity. It covers some phase of almost every American industry and the forest rangers are called upon to engage in various forms of work, all the way from caring for the forests to restocking streams with fish.

The visitors to the forests today will find bottling works in one of the reservations, canneries, and fish salteries in another, and in still another different establishments as quartz mills, mines, oil tanks, and pipe lines, powder and other warehouses, and fruit evaporating plants. He will find that trunk railways cross some of the forests and maintain on them costly snowsheds and stations. He may enter some of the reservations by electric railways and may swing high over portions of others on aerial tramways.

Products turned out from factories located in the natural forests include fertilizer from the fish canneries of Alaska, artificial ice from plants in the Southwest, turpentine from the Southern States, and charcoal. Wild life is conserved under special rules in Elks Park, on hunting and fishing preserves and on rabbit, fox, mink, and fur ranches.

Domestic animal industries make use of the forests as sites for the operation of poultry plants and dairies. The rearing of live things extends to insects, for great colonies of bees have been established and are gathering hundreds of pounds from the flowers that bloom in profusion on many of the national reservations.

ALL RADIO HEROES NOT FOUND AT SEA

"Recently a terrific storm was raging along the coast. The Marconi operator at the Astoria, Oregon, station realized that he was liable to be killed at his post by lightning at any moment. Did he go away from his post because of his danger? Needless to say, no. The sea was breaking heavily and a hurricane was blowing furiously. This operator was watching over the lives of those at sea that night. Finally lightning struck his aerial. The young man, by what seemed almost a miracle, suffered only a few severe burns. The telephone, telegraph and power lines were completely burned out. Never yet has a wireless operator failed in his duty to humanity on land or sea! As the citation of the Astoria incident shows, not all radio heroes are found at sea."

CREATURES AID EACH OTHER

Scientists have discovered that there is more than one kind of animal that employs creatures of another kind for various purposes. Crocodiles make friends with a bird called the Egyptian plover. This little bird is an enemy of an insect which causes considerable trouble to the teeth and mouths of the crocodiles. No crocodile will ever harm this bird, for not only does it save him from having bad teeth, but it prevents him from being irritated by the flies.

An even more curious partnership is that which exists between the hermit crab and a worm called the nereis. The hermit crab lives in the empty house of some other shellfish, but, as he litters his house with bits of food, he induces the nereis to come and live with him. In return for shelter the nereis cleans up the hermit's dwelling by eating all the fragments that are left about the shell.

SIMPLIFYING MATHEMATICS

The mathematicians have been amazed at the work of Wendell Sooy, a former newsboy, who is now taking a postgraduate course at the University of Pennsylvania. He has interested a class of teachers at the University with a demonstration of a new method he has evolved for the extraction of square and cube roots, greatly simplifying the task that has been a bugbear of school days.

Sooy, by the methods he has invented, can do a problem in five seconds that ordinarily requires about twenty minutes of hard work by a practiced mathematician. He has worked his way through the University and is now a graduate student preparing for a degree of Ph.D. His friends predict for him a brilliant career as a mathematician.

Knowledge should be the twin brother of love. The education which trains the intellect and neglects the heart is soulless.

lasted, snow sheds built and all the equipment throughout is first class. Its big steel bridges are not inferior to any in the United States. The continuation of the railroad up the Copper river from Chitina, on its way to Fairbanks, with a short branch from Copper Center, will open up the extensive Matanuska coal fields. It will be a downhill or level haul every mile of the distance from either the Matanuska coal fields or the Bering River coal fields to Cordova, the ocean terminus of the railway. Before long Alaskan coal will be commonly seen all over the United States.

HISTORY OF THE FLOWERS

The Mayflower, with her little rosy feet,
Ran out to meet the spring, all sweet and shy.
Where they could see their home, the azure sky.

She came upon the soft winds from the South;
She had fine garments given her to wear,
In color like a sea shell's curling mouth.

A country lass that never dared look up,
The Trillium in the shadow chose to grow.
The Dandelion and the Buttercup
Were touched by Midas' finger long ago.
The Primrose slipped away from moonlight land,
All faint and wan, delicious with the dew,
And would not open till a moonbeam spanned
The evening dusk, and tender kisses threw.

The Water-lily was a naiad's child;
The Blindweed was a wanderer pale and worn;
A captive maiden looking forth
The pleading Rose upon the bramble forlorn.

The red Lobelia lit a fire, and flung
The embers all around a shady dell;
The Daisy had a gipsy's crafty tongue,
And youthful fortune glibly would she tell!

The Asters were a shower of stars that fell
Amid the dimness of an autumn night.

Witch Hazel woke, and cheerily cried, "All's well!"
And met with smiles the dull November light.

—Edith M. Thomas.

Giving without love is a mockery of giving. One may strip himself to the point of beggary for the sake of others, but if love is lacking, the sacrifice is worthless.

For 24 years the San Fernando Valley has had no representative in the Board of Supervisors. Is it not time that we should choose a man from among ourselves to represent our interests. We have a Valley man who is a candidate; his name is Stephen C. Packer of Glendale and more than 2000 of his home people say he is a broad gauge, competent and honest business man. We agree with them; let us elect him August 29th.

The big pepper trees that for years past have added beauty to Pacific avenue near Riverdale drive, have been cut down by the ruthless march of progress—to give place to concrete sidewalks.

Mrs. May V. Kenyon and son Ralph, of 1500 Oak street, returned Monday evening from an extended visit at Berkeley, Cal., and stop-overs on the return trip at Madeira and Fillmore. Mrs. Kenyon visited her son at Fillmore.

Why go to South Pasadena or Los Angeles for supervisory timber when the San Fernando Valley has an ideal candidate in the person of Stephen C. Packer of Glendale, who has every necessary qualification for the office.

Among the most popular of local society events are the delightful house parties given by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Melford, whose Glendale home is on First street, but who are entertaining at their summer residence at Playa del Rey.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Smith, 305 N. Adams street, leave Aug. 20 for Kansas City, where they will visit their son. There Mr. Smith, who is a veteran of the Civil War, will attend the Encampment of the Grand Army. From Kansas City they will go to Des Moines, Iowa, where they will visit their daughter. They will also visit the Grand Canyon and will return by way of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Evans, 113 Orange street, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Goodwin, 124 W. Tenth street, at the University club, at dinner. This was really a farewell entertainment as the Evans are on the eve of going to Kentucky for a visit and the Goodwins leave this week for San Gabriel canyon, where they will be guests for a month at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Pierce.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hunchberger, S. Central avenue, during the recent trip made by them to the Yosemite valley, lost a trunk filled with clothing. This had been forwarded by them to Los Angeles but on their return they found no trace of the missing depository of a large number of valuable articles of apparel. After much delay and diligent search for the missing trunk it was traced, found and delivered to its rightful owners this week.

WHITE ELEPHANT PARTY

Glen Eyrie Chapter, Order Eastern Star, meets Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at Masonic hall and after a short business session the members will adjourn for a "White Elephant Party." All members of the Eastern Star in the valley are invited to this unique affair, the committee in charge of the affair being Mrs. A. W. Tower, Miss Carrie Cornwell, Miss Margaret Nichols, Miss Olive Williams and Miss Ruth Williams. Invitations have been issued reading as follows:

A White Elephant Exchange

The place, Glen Eyrie Chapter. The time, Thursday evening, August 10.

Have your slumbers been tormented every time you went to rest? And your waking hours made woe-ful when you rise? By processions of white elephants that sit upon your chest, And eye you with their wicked little eyes?

Those grimly frightful Christmas gifts that wouldn't let you sleep. Those birthday gifts that made your hair turn gray. The plaque your cousin painted you that always made you weep. The chromo that you've longed to give away.

Now here's your chance to finish one—that ought to help a bit. Pick out the one whose horror most abounds; Do him up in fancy wrappings, so he's sure to make a hit. And bring him to the swapping grounds.

Don't let anybody see him or even try to guess. If it's young and gay or old enough to drop. But if anyone should say, "Exchange?" speak up and answer yes. There's no limit to the times that you can swap.

Come early to the meeting and we will trade at ten. But when the fateful stroke is heard, You must open the elephants prepared for any shock. And perhaps the one you've got will be a bird.

SHADE

Mrs. Nanno Woods tells us that the Shade Tree Commission of the City of Newark, New Jersey, has published and distributed thousands of copies of this poem "Shade," written by Theodosia Garrison:

Shade

The kindest thing God ever made, His hand of very healing laid Upon a fevered world, is shade.

His glorious company of trees Throw out their mantles, and on these The dust-stained wanderer finds ease.

Green temples, closed against the heat Of noontime's blinding glare and heat, Open to any pilgrim's feet.

The white road blisters in the sun; Now half the weary journey done, Enter and rest, O weary one.

And feel the dew of dawn still wet beneath thy feet, and so forget The burning highway's ache and fret.

This is God's hospitality, And whoso rests beneath a tree Hath cause to thank Him gratefully. —By Theodosia Garrison in Everybody's Magazine.

STARTS CLEARANCE SALE

Mrs. M. Mayland, who conducts the Esperero de Verdugo dry goods store at the corner of Central and Stocker street, is starting a Clearance Sale, at which all merchandise in the store will be sold at cost.

AN ODD CHINESE BELIEF

Camphor is one of the most highly prized products that the Chinese have in their country. This is because it is considered valuable from a medicinal standpoint and merchants are willing to pay good prices for the best crystallized camphor. There are times when it is almost impossible to persuade the camphor hunters to go out in search of it, they are so superstitious. They live for a short time in their huts in the jungle, and listen to the song and chatter of the birds. There must be certain bird notes, which are very expressive, for from these the camphor hunters obtain their omens, as they call them. If certain birds give alarm notes the hunters are not supposed, according to this belief, to go in search of camphor for so many days. Then when they finally do start, the word camphor must not be used, for they believe that the use of the word causes the camphor in the trees to turn into liquid and become absolutely useless. Camphor is always spoken of as "that thing that smells," and if anybody becomes careless and uses the word camphor, he is discharged from his work and the expedition returns to await favorable omens from the birds before again starting out. Beatrice M. Parker, in Exchange.

TROPICO TRUSTEES MEETING

The board of trustees of the city of Tropic met in regular session in the city hall Tuesday evening at 7:30 with Trustees Alsop, Boyce, Henry, Peters and Seal present; also City Attorney Shaw, City Engineer Wattles, City Health Officer Mabry, Street Superintendent Wasson and City Marshal Gould.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

A communication was received from W. E. Jones, who was injured while formerly employed in the city engineer's department, stating that he had received a letter from his physician stating that the State Compensation Insurance Co. had refused to pay the $200 fee which had been presented to them and wished to settle for $77.50. The matter was referred to the city attorney with instructions to notify Mr. Jones and his physician that the city of Tropic was in no way responsible for the disputed claim and their settlement would have to be made with the State Compensation Bureau.

A communication was received from N. C. Burch with claim enclosed for typewriting expenses incurred by him during the water rate hearing before the State Railroad Commission. After considerable discussion the claim was refused on the ground that the work Mr. Burch did was contrary to the board's orders.

A communication was received from the City Library board showing the amount of cash on hand and the amount which would be needed for library expenses the coming year and asked the trustees to include $1250 in the budget for the library fund. The communication was ordered filed for reference.

The city attorney reported that he had received a letter from the Southern Pacific officials requesting a certified copy of the minutes where-in the trustees had ordered the agreement signed in regard to the Brand boulevard crossing and the removal of the signal tower. The city clerk was ordered to prepare a certified copy of that part of the minutes pertaining to such agreement for use of the city attorney.

The city attorney reported that he had received a deed from Edna Price and Charles Price to a certain strip of land to be used for storm protection in Sycamore wash. The same was accepted and ordered filed for record.

The city engineer asked the board what conclusion they had arrived at in regard to the kind of bridge or culvert to be placed on the Hill street improvement. The board ordered him to proceed with the plans calling for a wooden bridge.

F. E. Painter asked for a permit to keep 800 chickens at 620 Acacia street, which was granted.

J. W. Gould reported that he had collected during the month of July $48 for licenses.

The building inspector reported the collection of fees as follows for the month of July: Building permits, $7.50; electrical permits, $10.25; plumbing permits, $4.50.

Mr. Fairfield asked the board for a leave of absence for two weeks; the same was granted with full pay.

LA CANADA

The Christian Endeavors will take for their topic Sunday evening, "True Beauty, and How to Get It." Prov. 31:10-31. The leader for the evening is Miss Clara Armstrong. Let everyone come.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Cooper spent Sunday picnicking in the Arroyo Seco. This was an ideal day for the mountains.

Miss Margaret Green has been spending a few days at the seashore.

A number of the young ladies spent Wednesday at Brookside park. In the afternoon swimming was enjoyed. In the evening the young men of the valley joined the girls and a picnic lunch was enjoyed under thatched roofs with many beautiful lights. The party then departed and met again at Clunes, where they saw "The Smugglers." Among those who made up the party were Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Max Green, Rowena Green, Lulu Green, Helen Cooper, Henrietta Horne, Dorothy Lester, Katherine Green, Fannie Jewett, Gladys Granger, Margaret Van Degrift and Clara Armstrong; Edwin Cooper, Willard Barnum, Leo Colburn, Hardwick Van Degrift, Tyler Van Degrift, Robert Cooper, Lawrence Lester, Neil Jewett, Lloyd Peet, Marion Lea and Robert Horne.

The La Canada Valley Improvement association held their regular meeting Saturday evening, August 5, at the club hall. Mr. McFarland of Los Angeles, connected with the district attorney's office, gave several selections on the piano which were greatly applauded. Mr. Thomas Lee Woolwine gave an exceedingly interesting address on "Duties of the District Attorney."

Don't forget the C. E. social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Colburn, 931 W. 51st Place, Los Angeles, Friday evening, Aug. 11. Everyone that plans to go meet at the church at 7 o'clock. A rousing good time is planned so let everyone come out, and join in the festivities of the evening.

MONTE VISTA HEIGHTS

Philip Begue has finished his reservoir and swimming pool, and the boys are having a fine time "in swimming."

Lester Jones of Los Angeles spent Sunday with his father, M. C. Jones, of Hillcrest Drive.

McWilliams and Jones have about finished clearing three acres on Olive street for a Los Angeles real estate man.

Mrs. Hungerford, Miss A. Wall and Miss G. Wall of St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. Robinson and Mr. Olin Dow of Los Angeles, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Slusher of Hillcrest ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lang of Monte Vista boulevard are enjoying the cool breezes at the beach for a few days.

Mrs. Fred Cowlen of South Pasadena spent a few days at her ranch on Michigan avenue and Monte Vista boulevard.

Mrs. Seavy and daughter, Miss Seavy, of Seavona Camp, have gone to La Jolla and San Diego for a week or ten days.

A man does not have to live in a district 42 years to learn its needs; seven years is long enough for the average man. Stephen C. Packer of Glendale has lived in the San Fernando Valley seven years, during which time he has gained an intimate knowledge of not only affairs and needs of the Fifth Supervisorial district, but of the entire county. Pledged to a conservative and economic administration of the affairs of the county Mr. Packer is the type of man to make good his pledge, his word is as good as any man's bond.

SLEEPING IN THE OPEN

It is said that moonlight in the valley of the Nile blinds the man who sleeps in the open, exposed to its rays. However true that may be, there is no danger from that source in our part of the world; at least none of the many persons who sleep on porches or out in the open have been affected by it.

THE FOLKS AT HOME

There are many, many ways of sharing a vacation with the folks at home. A diary letter is one good way. This should be written up at least once a day, while the experiences are still fresh in mind. One clever girl keeping such a diary letter, illustrated it with little pen sketches showing places and people. The sketches were very small and very simple, and any girl who is handy with a pen can manage it in a short time.

Another girl, who was unable to draw a picture that any would recognize, illustrated her letter with postcard views and pictures. These were chosen with great care, so they would really serve as illustrations. Still another girl kept her train letter in the form of a story, with herself as heroine, and recounted her experiences in a way that made very interesting reading. Also this girl was looking to the future, for the letters were kept as she sent them home, and she used them in the English class during the next winter.

CANADA'S BUFFALO HERD

The Canadian Government is meeting with signal success in its efforts to preserve the buffalo from the swift extinction which threatened it a few years ago. The report from Wainwright, Alberta, shows that in April, 1909, the herd numbered 402. Since then it has increased at the rate of about 200 a year until today it numbers 2,077.

The history of this herd, which is now the largest in the world, dates back to 1873, when an Indian captured four bison calves by cutting them out of a stampeded herd on the Flathead Reservation in Montana. The young creatures obediently followed the horses of the hunters who had captured them. They were kept as pets at a mission station and the increase eventually made a valuable herd.

Officials of the Dominion Government finally secured an option on 600 head, the price being nearly $200,000. Since the herd became the property of the Canadian Government it has fared well in the new national park at Wainwright. The park has an area 150 square miles and is securely enclosed with a high fence of wire.

TO SAVE THE CHINCHILLA

Of all the furs found in and exported from South America, chinchilla is the finest and most valuable. It has gained in popularity to such an extent that there is danger of the chinchilla following the Arctic seal almost to extinction. It is hunted in the Cordilleras of Bolivia and northern Chile by Indians with dogs and ferrets that are trained to enter the burrows. This involves destruction of the young.

THE PRICE IS WORK

You must pay a price for everything worth having, and that price is work. You cannot even have a good time without working for it. See how hard a boy will work playing ball. Sometimes in the winter a company of boys will work like Trojans in building a snow fort. Lazy fun is little fun. And if you must work for a good time, do not expect to get the more important things without work.

PARK FOR ALASKA

The authorities at Washington are considering the creation of a national park in Alaska. The area considered lies east and west along the main axis of the Alaskan Range for ninety miles. Mt. McKinley, which has been described as "the loftiest summit in North America and the mightiest mountain in the world above the perpetual snow line," would be near the center. The region embraces some of the most inspiring scenery in the United States.

There would seem to be many reasons why a national park should be established in Alaska where much territory remains today in its primitive condition. The timber lands in the lower part of the proposed reservation contain animals native to the Northwest and which should be protected if they are to be preserved. A park would operate as a protection to mountains, forests, beasts, and birds.

HOMEMADE PHONOGRAPH

A phonograph recently constructed by a high school boy, and described in the Popular Science Monthly, has a reproducing part no more pretentious than an ordinary shingle with the point of a darning needle securely fastened in one corner. A steel knitting needle clamped in a laboratory ring stand is thrust through a hole in the shingle to support it as it is carried over the record.

The record is mounted on a wooden turntable constructed as follows: A disk made of three-quarters-inch wood, with a groove in the edge, is mounted on the hub and axle of an old bicycle wheel, so that it can turn easily. This is connected with an ordinary battery motor by means of a cord belt. Pressure of the thumb and finger on the shaft of the motor regulates the speed of the disk. Records can be played backwards simply by twisting the belt.

STUDYING EXTRA STEPS

Pedometers, to be worn by the senior girls in the Domestic Science Department of the Kansas State Agricultural College is the latest plan for determining how many unnecessary steps the girls take in the kitchen while preparing meals. The innovation is to be adopted at the opening of the fall term.

The girls who serve in the dining room will also wear pedometers. Careful records will be kept and a careful analysis made in the effort to determine where time and strength are lost by unnecessary steps.

Not a blade of grass but has a story to tell, not a heart but has its romance, not a life which does not hide a secret which is either its thorn or its spur. Everywhere grief, hope, comedy, tragedy; even under the petrification of old age, as in the twisted forms of fossils, we may discover the agitations and tortures of youth. This thought is the magic wand of poets and preachers; it strips the scales from our fleshly eyes, and gives us a clear view into human life; it opens to the ear a world of unknown melodies, and makes us understand the thousand languages of nature.—Amiel.

LEARNING AND DOING

There is always work everywhere for willing hands—work that requires no great amount of talent or efficiency to accomplish, just simple, loving interest and ambition—and every effort made strengthens the weak places; every victory over the natural reticence and timidity that is hindering our really worth-while accomplishment, increases our capability and places us one step higher in the scale of achievement. Efficient and successful workers may be "born, not made," as we sometimes say, but, admitting the truth of this, if they did not make use of the talent with which they were born it would soon have become useless—as if it had never been given. Perfection is attained only by earnest use of every talent we possess.

It goes without saying that we are not all possessed of the same talents. But before refusing to help in any branch of work for lack of talent, let us be sure, first of all, that it is really inefficiency and not merely self-consciousness, that is keeping us inactive; then, being aware of our incompetence as compared with successful workers, let us not be content with the mere acknowledgement of it, but set about finding the way, be it ever so simple and seemingly unimportant, in which we can help—the line of work in which we are most likely to succeed. We are inclined to rest content in our acknowledged incapability, letting capable ones do the work of our community, and excusing ourselves on the ground that they can do it better than we can, thus allowing what talent we may possess to grow weak and rusty from disuse. Even though we must force ourselves into the work just at first, a little active service many times obliterates entirely the sense of incompetence that oppresses us, so that we find we are perfectly capable of "doing things" and doing them well, too.

EFFECT OF GOOD ROADS

Dr. H. M. Rowe, president of the American Automobile Association, predicts that within a decade we shall begin to have separate roads for freight and passenger traffic, and the horse and the mule will have practically disappeared.

He says, "Our present highways will be greatly multiplied, largely increased in width and improved in quality. No other country can make such profitable use of good roads as the United States, and we will eventually excel in this respect. There have been wonderful changes in all matters relating to transportation since the introduction of the motor car, but there are still greater things to come."

THE MYRTLE FLOWER

Up through the tardy snows,
Braving each wind that blows,
Fearless it smiles, and grows—
Brave myrtle flower!

Sweet, modest, violet thing,
Timid, but glad to bring
Sure news of coming spring—
Wee myrtle flower.

Over the dreary sod,
Gayly its blossoms nod;
Sweetly it trusts in God—
Dear myrtle flower!

TO TEST CONTINENTAL ROADS

The Yellowstone Trail Association, an organization which is endeavoring to extend a public highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts, has issued a challenge to the Lincoln Highway for a night and day race, offering to deliver a message from the east to the west coasts in less time over its route than it can be done over the Lincoln Highway, the runs to be made simultaneously.

The officials of the organization say that such a contest is really for the purpose of stimulating public thought on transcontinental highways as well as to center attention on the feasibility of long-distance transportation and motor-driven vehicles on public roads.

KEEPING STEP

If you would keep step with the world keep going. Wherever the world may have been yesterday depend upon it it has moved forward today. It changes with each turn of the hands on the steeple clock. The situation when you return from lunch is different from the one you left you when you put on your hat to go out.

The game of business calls for new rules each day. Ten thousand minds are at work every hour of the twenty-four seeking new and improved ways of performing the world's work. All about you are those fitting themselves to do better whatever you may be doing. Intensity is the order everywhere. Every acre, every inch, every hour, every dollar, every mind must yield more. The survival of the fittest applies today with even greater force than in the past.—Attainment.

DON'T WASTE TIME

Make every hour count. Even when resting turn your ease, your diversions to a good purpose. Let your recreation be recreation that recreates.

Permitting a clock to run down and stop is not good for the clock; take a lesson from the time-piece. Keep going. You will have momentum to aid you. There are no dead-centres for those who keep moving.

There is little danger of our wearing out; there is much more to be feared from rusting out. Unexercised brains grow flabby with disuse.

Intelligent exercise of the mind and the muscles never killed any one nor made any one old. Those who remain young longest are those who have rightly used their powers. The monotony of idleness ages where activity animates, energizes.—Attainment.

The German invaders issue in occupied territories sixty-six newspapers, nearly all dailies. In Russia nine of which six are in German, two in Polish and one in Russian; in Belgium forty-six, of which twenty-nine are in French or French and German, and seventeen in Flemish; in France, eleven, of which nine are in German and two in French.

Recent explorations of Lake Tanganyika, in Africa, indicate that it is the deepest body of fresh water in the world, the record held heretofore by Lake Baikal, in northern Asia.

KEEP GOING

Of course in our keeping going it is expected that intelligence and judgment be exercised. It is not necessary nor desirable to be like the man who while painting a fence was observed to suddenly redouble the speed at which he had been working. He was laying the color on the boards with feverish energy. A neighbor, who had been looking on, curious to know the reason of his sudden burst of celerity, asked as to the why of his hurry.

"Because," replied the man, "because I just noticed I was nearly out of paint and I want to get the rest of the job finished before I use it all up."

Make your strokes count; use your head as well as your hands in your work.—Attainment.

"THEM CHICKENS"

If I but owned "them chickens," I'll tell you what I'd do: I'd fence them in with wire so close that they could not get through. I sure would keep "them chickens" where they could do no harm. To any neighbor I might have, His garden or his farm.

I would not let "them chickens" Go running out at large, Tormenting other people And make them rave and charge. And what is there, my brother, Will cause a man to swear Like chickens in his garden When they've no business there?

In all this world there's nothing Your neighbor will not pardon More quickly than your fat old hens A-scratchin' up his garden. And, brother, if my neighbor Should do as I might do, He'd surely say "them chickens" And on them he would chew.

And could I blame him, brother, If he should crack them through? Would you not say "them chickens" If they should bother you? The man who lets his chickens Torment his foe or friend Has small regard for others, And will lose out in the end.

BOATS OF GOATSKINS

The war has brought into use about every kind of craft that man has ever devised. There are boats that go over the water, on the water and under the water. The different types of vessels that are now plying the seas would make up a long list. And now the kelek has been mentioned in the press dispatches. It is being used to transport men and supplies on the crooked and often very shallow rivers of Mesopotamia. After having been used for thousands of years, it still serves the purpose better than anything modern men can devise.

This strange craft is thus described in the National Geographic Magazine: "The kelek is probably one of the oldest forms of water transportation used by our ancestors in Asia. It consists of goatskins inflated with air, tied beneath a framework of light poles. Often as many as eight hundred skins are used to give the boat the desired buoyancy."

"The cargo is loaded onto the kelek just as though it were a flat-bottomed barge, after which the craft begins its journey down the Tigris or Euphrates, propelled or guided by oars. When it reaches its journey's end it is broken up and sold as skins and lumber."

"At many places the river (Tigris) is deep enough to accommodate boats of considerable draught, but at others it is so shallow that a man has difficulty in swimming. But even over shallows, where a man cannot go as a swimmer, a well-laden kelek will float without accident."—Selected.

"Yea, find thou always time to say some earnest word Between the idle talk, lest with thee henceforth, Night and day, regret should walk."

A German book-trades exposition was held at Stockholm (Sweden) in April and May. It is said to have been very complete in its displays.

The number of union printers in Germany not yet called to the colors on March first was 29,600, of union lithographers 6,416, and of union bookbinders, 17,054.

AUGUST DREAMS

There is no ripple on the stream,
The winds its quiet bosom shun,
Lest they should break the happy dream
Of lilies sleeping in the sun.

The tinkle of a distant bell
Across the meadow faintly comes;
And nearer, at his honey-well
The bee in fragrance drinks and hums.

The leaves hang down like flakes of gold,
And like a mirror gleams the grass
Wherein the soft white clouds make bold
To view their shadows as they pass.

Drowsing within the shade I lie
While all the grove is stricken mute,
And dream that Pan goes piping by—
A ghost, with Echo in pursuit.

—Frank Dempster Sherman.

The number of medical students decreased last year 1611 as compared with the preceding year. Since 1904 the decrease has been a total of 13,251. The learned professions, without exception, seem to suffer as compared with those which promise larger incomes. The god of too many is spelled g-o-l-d. We must get back to ideals rather than materials. We do not object to man seeking any occupation; but let the deciding factor be not the dollar.
